

BORAH, JOHNSON UNITE TO FIGHT COURT 'REFORM'

Would Block President's Legislation
In Senate

Congressmen go into Private Conferences at Washington

Washington, Feb. 8.—(AP)—A famous senate team that helped defeat Woodrow Wilson's League of Nations covenant locked arms once more today in an effort to block President Roosevelt's court reform legislation.

Senator Johnson (R-Calif.), who supported Mr. Roosevelt in 1932 but took no part in the election last fall, announced he would oppose "this extraordinary legislation" to "the limit of my capacity."

A few moments later the Californian, who has just returned to the capital after a long illness, was deep in conversation with Senator Borah (R-Ida.).

"The Lion of Idaho" already had been preparing to take a leading part in the fight against the president's proposal to appoint new supreme court justices and federal judges for each present one past 70 who refuses to retire.

Johnson and Borah teamed successfully in two historic controversies in the past. They helped keep the United States out of the League of Nations and, after a long falling out that followed Borah's failure to support the "Bull Moose" ticket of Theodore Roosevelt and Johnson, joined hands again to lead the opposition against President Roosevelt's proposal for American adherence to the World Court.

The present struggle continued today to cause a tumult of discussion that doubtless will not abate until congress acts, weeks or months hence.

Administration supporters in the senate—where the hardest contest is expected—bided their time. Number among the leaders on their side were Robinson, the Democratic leader, Byrnes (D-SC), Pittman (D-Nev) and Ashurst (D-Ariz.), chairman of the judiciary committee which discussed the proposition informally for the first time this morning.

Senator Gillette (D-Iowa) joined the ranks of Democrats opposing the president's plan for dealing with the supreme tribunal. This group already included Glass and Byrd of Virginia; Burke of Nebraska; King of Utah and Van Nuys of Indiana.

Senator Thomas (D-Okla.) returned to Washington during the day and gave limited endorsement to the president's program.

"I favor a liberal retirement system," he told reporters, "but I am not ready to endorse the proposal to increase the supreme court to 15 members."

Elsewhere in the capital the outlines of new legislation whose path might be smoothed by a more liberal judicial interpretation of the constitution began to take form.

Secretary Wallace presented to a national conference of farm leaders a plan for an "ever normal" granary and rigid crop control legislation. The latter, he said, would be used only when the nation's supplies of farm products piled up excessively, and after less drastic measures had failed.

MRS. SIMPSON GOLFS
Cannes, France, Feb. 8.—(AP)—While the Duke of Windsor entertained his sister and her husband in Vienna, Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson braved an early morning rain and spent all of today playing golf at Cannes.

Her host at the nearby Lou Viei Villa, Herman L. Rogers of New York, declared he knew nothing about the objects of the Princess Royal and her husband in visiting the Duke.

Hoover's Tribute Places Elihu Root "In Front Ranks"

New York, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover paid the following tribute today to the late Elihu Root:

"When history dissolves the origins of ideas and the personal leadership which have led them to great achievements for the American people, Elihu Root will stand in the front ranks of his generation.

"His public service did not end with his retirement from public office. In one direction alone the advancement of the science of organization and the development of thought have received greater support at his hands than any man of our times."

MOTORS STRIKE IS ENDORSED BY WILLIAM GREEN

Insists, However, That Federation Unions
Must Stay

Labor Head is Still at Odds
With Lewis' Methods

Washington, Feb. 8.—(AP)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, endorsed the General Motors strike tonight but insisted that federation unions must not be frozen out of the auto industry in any settlement.

The strike is led by John L. Lewis, who is under suspension from the federation for alleged "insurrection."

Green's statement was made at a press conference. It followed the circulation of reports, in usually well-informed quarters, that some of President Roosevelt's principal labor advisers had urged him to keep hands off the strike as much as possible because of the fight between the federation and Lewis.

Lewis insists that General Motors recognize the United Automobile Workers of America as the sole collective bargaining agency for all employees in 20 plants. These employees include a small percentage eligible for membership in A. F. of L. craft unions. Federation leaders contend some of them belong to craft unions.

Green, questioned extensively about the General Motors situation, avoided saying there should be an election in the General Motors plants to determine what collective bargaining agency employees desired. He discussed at length, however, what type election should be held if one were ordered or decided upon.

He recalled that the federation had decided all auto workers employed on assembly lines should belong to the United Automobile Workers, before that union was suspended from the A. F. of L. for affiliating with Lewis' committee for industrial organization. The assembly lines, he said, would cover over 90 per cent of all General Motors workers.

If there were an election, he said, the assembly line workers should decide whether they wished to be represented by the United Automobile Workers, while the skilled craftsmen employed elsewhere should decide whether they wanted to be represented by A. F. of L. craft unions, by outside organizations or by themselves.

Green emphasized that the federation wanted the United Automobile Workers to win their strike—with A. F. of L. craft rights protected.

Green declined to make public a telegram sent Governor Murphy of Michigan, demanding that A. F. of L. craft unions be protected in any strike settlement. The governor, he said, had not replied.

Railroad Unions Postpone Strike

Chicago, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Action by President Roosevelt averted today a strike threatened by union representatives of 1,800 employees of the Chicago Great Western Railroad who are members of the Big Five Brotherhoods.

Leo J. Hasselbauer, counsel for the Brotherhoods, said the president's appointment of an emergency board of three to investigate the dispute between the employees and the railroad would cause the strike "to be held up automatically" pending a report of the board.

The Brotherhoods had threatened to strike tomorrow if the railroad's trustees did not pay $60,000 in wages awarded certain employees by the National Railway Labor Board two years ago.

During the day Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward dismissed an order citing officials of the five Brotherhoods to show cause why they should not be held in contempt for threatening a strike while the railroad was under jurisdiction of the National Railway Labor Board two years ago.

The Brotherhoods had threatened to strike tomorrow if the railroad's trustees did not pay $60,000 in wages awarded certain employees by the National Railway Labor Board two years ago.

FASCIST TROOPS SWEEP THROUGH 'LAST' SEAPORT

Malaga, Only Harbor
City Of Socialists
Is Taken

Entire Central Part of City
Sacked And Burned

Malaga, Spain (By Courier to Gibraltar), Feb. 8.—(AP)—Victorious Fascist legions of General Francisco Franco swept into terror-stricken Malaga today and occupied completely the last important seaport held by the Socialist government on the southern coast.

The surrender was unconditional. The defense simply melted away. No government authorities remained to proclaim submission to the insurgent war machine as it moved with precision into the heart of the city.

The entire central part of the city had been sacked and burned.

Officers and men in the van of victorious Fascists cryptically described conditions as "in a horrible state."

Amid scenes of wild joy and enthusiasm, 300 Rightists held in prison were released and marched out, singing.

Fascist officers said they found "not a single body in the streets" when they entered the city.

They said, however, they estimated 5,000 Rightists had been killed during the Socialist occupation of the seaport.

Occupation was complete when insurgent columns from all directions converged in the plaza De La Constitution at 9:30 A. M. (4:30 A. M. E. S. T.) with all major resistance of the defenders cleaned up.

What remained of the government armed forces, pushed slowly by Franco's legion squeezing in a semicircle on the coastal city, streamed back into Malaga as the insurgents advanced and melted into the crowds lining the sidewalks to greet the invaders with cries of "arriba Espana"—"up Spain!"

Principal opposition to the insurgents was offered by a few hundred Socialists who made a last stand behind a row of trees near the railway station at the city's entrance. Their action failed to deter the on-coming tide.

Franco's men waited until all columns reached the city's suburbs. Then they advanced under the grey early morning skies toward the center of the city where terrorists had added to the fear of the civil population swollen by thousands of refugees.

Socialists apparently attempted to lose themselves in the cheering throngs, hoping they would not be recognized as the men with clenched fists who opposed the Fascist advance. Their organization had practically disappeared in the last near-melting action of Franco's army.

A number of Leftist leaders were captured last night by the cruiser Almirante Cervera as they attempted to escape under cover of darkness in a ship which had held 800 Rightist prisoners. The prison ship, kept anchored in the harbor, was cleared of prisoners before the Leftists attempted their futile dash for liberty.

Roosevelt Speaks To Boy Scouts On 27th Anniversary

Invites Them to Hold Jamboree in Washington
June 30

Washington, Feb. 8.—(AP)—President Roosevelt invited 25,000 Boy Scouts today to hold a jamboree here next June 30—July 9 to "afford a practical demonstration of the principle of self-reliance" which he said scout work developed.

In radio address on the 27th anniversary of the Boy Scout organization, he declared he believed in the effectiveness of "trained boyhood" and added the ideals of scouting were not simply ideals for boys but also for men.

For the ideal of service to them," he declared, "can never be outgrown however often it may be lost sight of by some."

The jamboree was to have been held two years ago, but was cancelled because of an outbreak of infantile paralysis.

American youths and scouts from other countries will live in tents during the gathering here.

The president said he was gratified to hear of a greater increase in the scout membership last year than in 1935 and for reports of "practical aid" scouts were given in cooperation with flood relief workers.

LETTER FROM SHIRLEY
Los Angeles, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Martin Johnson, famous jungle explorer, discovered a kindred spirit today in Shirley Temple, child film star.

"I got a letter from Shirley," she related. "It was killing. She wrote since you like animals so well, come out and see my rabbits."

Mrs. Johnson will, she said, when she recovers from injuries suffered in an airplane crash near here Jan. 12.

Kansas City, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Nelson Eddy, film and radio singer, underwent a minor nose and throat operation here today.

Mentioned as New Court Justices

Among those mentioned as possible appointees to the supreme court in the event President Roosevelt's court enlargement program becomes law, are, left to right, top row: Donald Richberg, former NRA administrator; Judge Florence E. Allen of the sixth circuit court of appeals; Felix Frankfurter, presidential adviser. Lower row, left to right: Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, Senator Robert F. Wagner, Solicitor General Stanley F. Reed.

AVERT SHORTAGE BLAME THOSE IN IN RELIEF FUNDS CHARGE FOR BOAT BY PASSING BILL TRAGEDY DEATHS

Congress Reaches Compromise On Appropriation

Washington, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Congress, at an overtime session tonight, averted a threatened suspension of relief payments. It adopted a compromise on the $950,000,000 relief and deficiency appropriation and sent the measure to the White House.

Disagreement over a house "rider" which would have prohibited use of regular departmental appropriations to pay salaries of personnel loaned to congressional investigating committees was the chief difficulty.

Because of empty relief coffers, however, both senate and house made last minute concessions and, as finally passed, the "rider" merely prohibited the borrowing of certain personnel from relief agencies, effective 30 days after enactment of the bill.

Representative Woodrum (D-Va.), a member of the house appropriations committee which fought for the "rider" announced the campaign for a complete ban on the practice would be pressed when the independent office appropriation bill, now pending in the senate, reaches the conference stage.

The deficiency bill carries $879,000,000 for the Works Progress Administration but President Roosevelt has pledged "every cent" of that sum, if necessary, for relief of flood sufferers.

The "rider" which had caused trouble since the bill passed both branches last week in slightly different forms met serious opposition in the senate because it applied directly to two special senate committees investigating railroad financing and civil liberties violations. Both were operating with borrowed personnel and leaders said the prohibition would have crippled their activities.

Opponents of the proposal in the house contended it would "hamstring" congressional committees but (Continued on Page 8)

Curious Spectators Flock To Supreme Court Session

Washington, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The gray-haired supreme court justices seemed as inscrutable as ever to the curious spectators who flocked to their session today.

It was the court's first formal meeting since President Roosevelt's court reform message.

By noon, the regular starting hour, the courtroom was packed and a long line waited in the marble corridors outside for a chance to enter.

A movement behind the long curtains back of the bench was the signal for Court Crier Waggaman to sing out:

"The chief justice and the associate justices of the supreme court."

Justice Brandeis stepped out too quickly, ahead of Chief Justices Hughes, who traditionally appears first. He hesitated a moment until the others moved forward, then all sat down.

The court crier chanted:

"Oyez! Oyez! Oyez! All persons having business before the honorable supreme court are admonished to draw near and give their attention, for the court is now sitting."

"God save the United States and this honorable court!"

Justice Cardozo sat humped down, immobile and staring into space. Justices Stone and Sutherland shifted in their seats now and then or changed the direction of their gaze.

Justice Van Deventer, traditionally silent in the courtroom, leaned back, listening patiently, while the lawyer droned on.

General Motors Officials Leave Strike Conference; Set Up State Of Emergency In Flint, Michigan

BULLETIN

Detroit, Feb. 9.—(Tuesday) —(AP)—Governor Frank Murphy issued the following statement when the strike conference adjourned early today:

It has been my duty from the beginning to exhaust all reasonable efforts to achieve a peaceful settlement. At no moment have I changed that course and I don't intend to.

In my judgment under present circumstances, it is my claim and first duty to continue the peaceful negotiations that I think will bring about good results.

Of course everybody must remember that this largest industrial conflict of our time has not been marked by any fatality.

If they keep their heads there won't be any fatalities. Some people ought to get it into their heads that this is not the weak thing, but the strong thing to do. We have been in conference today more than ten hours and despite statements that are made I feel the parties are closer together now than at any time.

Detroit, Feb. 8.—(AP)—General Motors Corporation in a formal statement tonight indicated it had left the strike settlement conference but had assured Governor Frank Murphy "of our readiness to respond to an early call by him to resume conferences if, in his judgment, any good could result from them."

The statement disclosed that General Motors had offered to have Governor Murphy conduct a secret vote among its employees concerning their wishes in respect to union representation, but the union delegation rejected it.

The apparent breakup in negotiations came during the eleventh session of a conference that began six days ago upon the governor's call and at "the wish of the president."

The statement was issued from General Motors offices here while General Motors officials and representatives of the United Automobile Workers of America still were conferring with Governor Murphy and James F. Dewey, a federal conciliator.

Donald Brown, finance chairman of the corporation, left the session about 8:30 o'clock, an hour and a half after it began and went to the General Motors building.

"Out of all the conferences and discussions which have taken place," the statement said, "the fundamental issue again left itself—the power of the union to prevail, based as it is on violence, disregard of law and order and contempt of courts; or are the legitimate rights of over 125,000 workers to be considered, thus reasserting the forces of law, order, justice, reason and civilization?"

Dispute Threatens Again to Break Up Maritime Shipping

Jurisdictional Dispute Affects Five Ships On Pacific Coast

San Francisco, Feb. 8.—(AP)—A jurisdictional dispute involving ship crews and longshoremen today tied up five coastal freighters halted for 98 days in the maritime strike which was settled last week.

Stevedores deserted three of the ships at Portland, Ore., and one each at San Diego and San Pedro in the most serious threat to water front peace since the strike ended.

The dispute involves the jurisdiction of longshoremen in handling cargo. Employers contend certain supervisory work comes under direction of the ship's officers. The longshoremen say it should be done by them.

Coastal operators declared the question, which held up peace negotiations with the unions for many weeks, was settled in a supplementary agreement attached to the general peace pact between offshore shippers and the International Longshoremen's Association.

CAMPFIRE MEETING
The Yokowish Campfire met Feb. 8, 1937, in the Yokowish Campfire room at the Congregational church.

The Campfire worked on their curtains and honors. Only one member of the Campfire was absent. Plans were made for the ceremonial to be held soon.

POSTPONE MEETING
A meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary society of the Lynnville M. E. church, which was to have been held Thursday of this week, has been postponed to Thursday, Feb. 18. The meeting will be held at that time at the home of Mrs. Charles Schofield.

Improvisings Of Thomas A. Edison Played on Record

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Feb. 8.—(P)—A 25-year-old recording of Thomas A. Edison's little known musical improvising at the piano—one the inventor described as "rotten"—was played to-night at a pre-birthday program honoring his memory.

The recording, preserved in a phonograph disc of Edison invention, was made secretly by Prof. A. B. Kennedy of the University of Alabama Chemistry school.

Tonight's program, held three days prior to the 90th anniversary of Edison's birth, was sponsored by the University Chapter of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

Kennedy's record, the only known one in existence of Edison playing the piano, was preserved from one of three wax discs the professor made when he slipped a recording instrument behind a screen in the inventor's music room. He was a laboratory assistant to Edison at West Orange, N.J., at the time.

Lindberghs Arrive At Sicily; Storms Force Longer Trip

Palermo, Sicily, Feb. 8.—(P)—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived at Boccio Di Falco airport today after bucking storms that slowed their speed to an average of less than 60 miles an hour on a flight from Rome.

The famous couple alighted a few minutes after officials, apprehensive over their lapse of time, had ordered emergency airports to be on the alert for the Lindberghs.

Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh spent the rest of the afternoon after their arrival at 3:10 p. m. (8:10 a. m. EST) sight seeing.

The Colonel said they planned to fly across the Mediterranean for Tripoli at 7:30 a. m. tomorrow. They were invited there by General Italo Balbo, trans-Atlantic aviator who is now governor of Libya. From Tripoli they are expected to go to Cairo.

Touring in their orange and black monoplane, the Lindberghs were expected to remain in Sicily for a day or two before taking off across the Mediterranean, probably with Tripoli and Cairo as destinations.

Italian officials and United States vice consul W. E. Scott greeted the Lindberghs with sighs of relief after saying they were "astounded" the American fliers had been permitted to take off from Rome in the heavy winds.

The storm developed soon after they left Rome, the Colonel told officials, so he abandoned the idea of making a beeline across the Tyrrhenian Sea to this city. Instead, the couple flew down the coast to the tip of the Italian "Boot," and then over the straits to Palermo, considerably lengthening their journey.

The Lindberghs took off into an overcast sky from Litorio airport, at Rome after bidding goodbye to Italian officials and their host, Dean Chester H. Aldrich of the American Academy in Rome.

WOMAN TAKES FULL BLAME FOR SLAYING

East St. Louis, Ill., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Chief of Police Michael O'Rourke said that in a second confession today Mrs. Cecelia Zellman, took full blame for slaying her 76-year-old husband, George Zellman, psychic healer, and exonerated her admirer, Thomas Pierce, 44, whom she had named as the slayer in an earlier statement.

Chief O'Rourke said, however, "her second confession presented so many inconsistencies and she was so obviously hysterical" that he placed her back in a cell to regain her composure. Pierce denied any connection with the slaying.

In her second statement she told Chief O'Rourke she shot Zellman in the kitchen of their home last Friday. Previously she blamed the slaying on Pierce because she "feared the electric chair."

TO HEAR MERCY PLEA OF MRS. MILDRED BOLTON

Chicago, Feb. 8.—(AP)—A plea for commutation of the death sentence of Mrs. Mildred Bolton, convicted killer of her husband, will be argued Wednesday before the state pardon and paroles board in Springfield, Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach said today.

Mrs. Bolton's electrocution for the gun slaying of Joseph W. Bolton, Jr., in his loop insurance office last June was scheduled for Feb. 62. Attorney Bachrach said he would argue that the crime was manslaughter rather than murder and that alienists found the woman's mind was disordered.

GIVING THANKS
Tokyo, Feb. 8.—(P)—The women of Japan observed today as annual religious festival honoring the humble sewing needle. In millions of homes and especially in thousands of girls' schools was observed the "Hari-Kuyo," giving thanks in song, verse and prose for the services of this simple but indispensable domestic helper.

Special attention was given the memory of needles lost or broken during the past year.

Flint, Mich., Feb. 8. (AP)—The Flint city commission declared tonight a state of emergency existed and gave Mayor Harold E. Bradshaw full command over the city government. The commission's delegation of power from itself and the city manager to the mayor was contained in a resolution adopted by a vote of 6 to 2.

One of the nine commission members was absent. There was no debate on the resolution.

Under the city's charter the commission and the city manager constitute the supreme authority in the municipality, but there is a provision for delegating the power in an emergency.

The resolution read: "Whereas there is an emergency existing in the city of Flint at this time, now therefore be it resolved that the mayor be and hereby is authorized to take command of the police department of the city of Flint and such other departments and subordinates of the city as may be deemed necessary for the purpose of maintaining law and order."

Mayor Bradshaw said later: "In accepting this authority, I don't want it to be construed as a criticism of any department head."

City Manager John M. Barringer submitted to the commission a statement answering a series of questions about the special police force now being organized. The questions had been asked by the commission in a resolution adopted Saturday after a sharp exchange of words between Barringer and two commissioners.

The city manager said in his statement the formation of the special police had been authorized by the commission, the force was made up of volunteers who would receive no pay, their commissions would be good until revoked by the city, only residents of Flint were accepted, the city will pay for and furnish their equipment, and he did not know whether any of the special police were members of the United Automobile Workers or the Flint Alliance, an anti-strike organization.

National Guard officers meanwhile intensified their vigilance.

"They were prepared to act at a moment's notice to forestall any outbreak of violence between members of the United Automobile Workers and anti-strikers."

Although military headquarters withheld any information concerning plans of action, it was known the National Guard was prepared either to block off areas around other General Motors plants, as they have the area surrounding the Chevrolet and Fisher No. 2 plants, or to clamp martial law on the city if the situation should require more drastic action.

Sheriff Thomas W. Wolcott, carrying in his pocket writs ordering the eviction and arrest of strikers in Fisher plants No. 1 and 2, continued to await developments. He has said repeatedly he would make no attempt to enforce the writs until Governor Frank Murphy replies to his request for the assistance of troops.

Mayor Still Holds People From Cairo

Cairo, Ill., Feb. 8.—(P)—With the Ohio river falling rapidly from its all-time record flood stage, women and children appeared in Cairo tonight in increasing numbers, having apparently remained in the city despite Mayor August Bode's evacuation order.

Officials, who had believed all but a few hundred obeyed the decree, now estimated about 1,500 women and children stayed secluded in their homes during the city's long fight against the river's inundation threat.

There was no effort to order a new evacuation, but deputy sheriffs continued their patrol along U. S. highway 51 to prevent return of about 5,000 persons who left the city at the mayor's instructions. He said he did not believe Cairo would be "absolutely safe" until the river dropped to 55 feet.

The Ohio's stage tonight was 585 feet, putting it 41 feet below the top of the city's bulkheaded seawall. Coming from Memphis, Tenn., Col. Eugene Reybold of the United States army engineers inspected the concrete wall and its surmounting bulwark of timbers and earth and said they were "in perfect condition."

W. E. Barron, veteran government river observer, predicted the Ohio would fall at an increasing rate for the next few days. He said the drop should be about a foot in the 24 hours ending at 6 A. M. tomorrow.

Boy Scout Week

Jacksonville Boy Scout troops this week are celebrating the 27th anniversary of Scouting in the United States. A few dozen boys are interested and participating in the program, instead of hundreds.

This city needs more Scouts and more troops. If the organization for boys is to function properly, it must have wider support and reach a larger number of boys. Instead of 50 or 100 Scouts attending a rally, the number should be 300 or 400.

The present strength of Scout troops in this community is no reflection upon the men who have labored faithfully to keep the movement alive. They have done the best they can under the circumstances. But as a part of the Abraham Lincoln Council, the Osage district, of which this city is a unit, should become a hotbed of interest and activity in Scouting.

One of the conditions that has retarded Scout work here in recent years was the lack of a sufficient number of capable leaders. Many boys expressed willingness to join troops, but few men could be found who would take the time and trouble to supervise new organizations. So the Scout movement has gone ahead on a limited basis, with a few boys obtaining advantages of its influence instead of hundreds.

The goals of the Abraham Lincoln Council for this year are encouraging and inspiring. Scout membership may be doubled or tripled in most communities.

With the renewed vigor that has been shown by council and district leaders, it is to be hoped that next Memorial Day, when Boy Scouts march in the annual parade, the troops will be numerous; that their ranks will be large, and representative of an organization that deserves greater attention.

On some public occasions the showing of the Scout troops has been pitiful in size. Rallies supposed to embrace the entire city and surrounding territory have resulted in scattered response. A few troops showed up, but not at full strength, and not representative of an organization that should include the majority of boys of the community.

The anniversary celebration in this city this week may be the turning point in Scout activities. The troops should be multiplied, each unit should be brought up to full strength.

In the future, when Jacksonville views a mobilization of its Scouts, it would like to see several hundred boys in uniform. Until that time, the council and district officials have worth-while goals toward which to direct their efforts.

A Man Steps In

A graduate of Mt. Holyoke College brought to this office a few days ago a newspaper clipping telling of the future that has resulted from appointment of Dr. Roswell G. Ham of Yale as its first male president.

The local woman is much exercised over the appointment of a man to preside over the destinies of the women's school, which has had women presidents throughout its history of a century. Like many other graduates of Mt. Holyoke, she believes that the presidency is a woman's job—that Mt. Holyoke will suffer if the tradition is broken.

The situation promises to furnish a number of warm and interesting sessions before the alumnae of Mt. Holyoke submit to the decision of the board which selected Dr. Ham to assume the presidency next June. No doubt other graduates of Mt. Holyoke residing in this section of the state are watching the proceedings with deep interest.

Leading the fight against the intrusion of man into the women's school is Dr. Mary Emma Wooley, who will retire from the president's chair at the time Dr. Ham is expected to step in. She said she was in agreement with a "committee of 100" alumnae statement that the committee of nine trustees which selected Dr. Ham was "packed" and that other statements now being circulated by the committee in a pamphlet "are not only inaccurate but they also suggest a trend which has been markedly unfortunate for women in European countries."

The committee of 100 asserted women have changed their wills because of Dr. Ham's appointment as president of one of the country's oldest institutions of learning for women.

It listed Dr. Ham's qualifications for the post under a sub-head, "Tell It To The Marines." Dr. Ham served in that branch of the service during the world war.

While attacking the qualifications of the new appointee, the women of Mt. Holyoke who are leading the fight have given the idea that regardless of qualifications, they want no man serving in the presidency.

Miss Wooley was quoted as saying in a letter to the trustees, she could "imagine no greater blow to the advancement of women than the announcement of Mt. Holyoke celebrates its centennial by departing from the ideal of leadership by women for women, which inspired the founding of the institution."

The situation is, indeed, distressing. The future of the school no doubt is hanging in balance, as no institution can prosper unless it has the moral and financial assistance of its graduates. Should the pressure of the alumnae in opposition to the appointment become too great, it appears that the trustees of Mt. Holyoke may reconsider their decision. Thousands of women who have been educated there cannot bring themselves to the thought of seeing a man occupy a position that has been held by women for one hundred years.

A "Wild Story"

Local and state officers spent a busy day Saturday investigating the reported kidnapping of the wife of a Southern Illinois hitch-hiker. The crime was supposed to have been committed a short distance east of Jacksonville, making Morgan county officers responsible for solution of the mystery. After a rapid and thorough investigation, it was revealed that the purported kidnapping was largely a "wild tale."

In the first place, the woman involved in the case was not the wife of the man who claimed he had been beaten and tossed from a car by three strange men, with whom they had accepted a ride.

It was also revealed in the investigation that the woman accompanied the trio of her own accord, and was not forced to go anywhere against her will.

Kidnaping is serious business. Fabricating stories of kidnappings also is serious business.

The officers who ran down the facts in this case deserve credit for clearing up a mystery that might have gone into the records as unsolved. But the affair should not be dropped too quickly.

The man who told the story, if his claims can be completely branded as false, should be made to realize that the law does not tolerate hoaxes of this kind. He should be dealt with as a culprit, and taught that "wild tales" are not welcome in this community, where an honest effort is made to suppress actual crime, but where all crime, whether imaginary or bonafide, is unwanted.

Soft Drinks in the Flood

We imagine that a bottle of orange soda would look mighty good to anyone in the flood area, who has been drinking boiled, murky water for more than two weeks, or going without drinking water of any kind for a long period.

The average flood refugee, in fact, wouldn't be a bit hard to please as to flavor of the drink—he would grab a grape, lemon or lime, and pour its cooling draughts down his parched throat, with a knowledge that it was pure.

As an emergency flood relief measure, the American Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages has established emergency service in the flood area, operating from Columbus, Ohio, from the headquarters of the Ohio Bottlers' association. A complete field service motorized laboratory in charge of the two technical experts of the association has been rushed to the flood district to cooperate with state and local health authorities. The purpose of this service is to speed up the release of more than five hundred million bottles of carbonated beverages needed in the localities in which drinking water supplies have been contaminated by flood waters and where there is a strong likelihood of typhoid and other water-borne diseases.

The association has prepared for general circulation among the bottlers in flood sections complete directions for the salvage and sterilization of the filled bottles in order to make them safe for use in the emergency. These have been given verbal approval by the office of the surgeon general of the U. S. Department of Public Health.

Bottlers of carbonated beverages throughout the country have long featured the purity of their products in advertising campaigns. Everyone is fairly well convinced that a bottle of soda water is about as pure and free from germs as any liquid that can be taken into the human system. The service the bottlers are now rendering in the stricken areas "ties in" admirably with the previous publicity campaigns.

We imagine that a man or woman in the flood district who quenches thirst with these products during the emergency will have a kind feeling for bottled soft drinks when conditions get back to normal.

The bottlers are doing a fine piece of work in the emergency; it ought to help their business in the future.

"A Dollar Saved—"

"A Dollar Saved Is A Dollar Earned."

That is an old maxim, but it is as true today as when it was first uttered. Many Jacksonville residents, and citizens of surrounding areas, will have this ancient truth in mind today as they visit the business district here to take advantage of Dollar Day offerings.

Next Time Why Not Have This Sitdown First?

Jacksonville merchants have advertised real savings in today's special sales. Dimes, quarters and dollars can be and will be saved by the shopping public.

This city is the natural trading center for a large West Central Illinois territory. But its commercial scope can still be widened. New and improved highways have opened up territory that in former years was somewhat isolated from this community.

Alert to the possibilities of serving a broadened area, the merchants of Jacksonville frequently conduct special sales events to acquaint the public with advantages of doing business here all during the year. These special events, such as Dollar Day today, offer buyers the utmost in economy.

When shoppers know that they are getting bargains, saving money on their purchases, they are bound to come back. That is the principal of Dollar Day, to make friends and hold them.

Elihu Root

Elihu Root of New York died the other night with a record of great service to his state and the nation.

Under Republican and Democratic Presidents he had been called upon to represent the government in international situations where his high honor and statesmanship commanded the respect of foreign governments with whom he dealt.

Although he had served with distinction as secretary of war in the cabinet of President McKinley, and secretary of state under President Theodore Roosevelt, he was a member of the permanent court of arbitration at The Hague long before the World Court was instituted.

After an experimental stage of the World Court had shown its weaknesses, Mr. Root devised the amendments of the protocol by which the United States might have taken part in the court without political entanglements with European governments. However, the Senate was never willing to formally join the court, in spite of urgings by four Presidents.

As Senator, commissioner on many foreign missions and in countless other ways Elihu Root filled a notable record. He was one of the men who performed services for his country equal to or more than several of our presidents.

The remains were returned to Petersburg Monday.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

Washington Seers Split Over Policy on Trade Upswing

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal-Courier Washington Correspondent

Washington.—The administration's five-billion-dollar public works program, in its function as something to be used quickly against any future depression emergency, comes as a relief to many economists here who are none too sure that the next depression is a long way off.

Predominant administration policy is now based on the gamble that the upward swing in business activity will continue for the next two or three years. The budget-balancing, Federal Reserve, taxation and relief phases of the policy all tie in with that gamble.

Economists here differ in their speculations and predictions, but their charts and tables show that if the present upturn continues more than three or four months longer it will break the previous longevity records. The two big previous upturns were that of 1861-65 which lasted 46 months, and that of 1915-18, which continued 44 months. War figured in each instance. The present steady rise in business activity is now in its 48th month.

Records—which of course do not govern the future—show that a business expansion period usually runs about one-seventh longer than the preceding period, which in the 1929-33 period lasted for 45 months.

Two Guesses
Roughly speaking, administration policy-makers tend to divide into two groups at this time.

One is a fiscal group which bets on steadily increasing production, bigger profits and rising federal revenue. Leaning toward or already in this school are Secretary Morgenthau, Reserve Board Governor Eccles, Donald Richberg, Assistant Secretary of Commerce Draper and W. Averell Harriman, head of the administration-sponsored Business Advisory and Planning Council.

The other group, including many of the more liberal New Deal economists, believes that mass purchasing power has been and still is the key to recovery, and fears that the rising price level, spurred by the profit urge and made possible by accelerated business activity, is now endangering purchasing power and hence the upswing of business recovery.

Economic forecasters in the Treasury are guessing that business activity, which increased 14 per cent in 1936, will increase 10 per cent this year over last year—thus reach a figure above 1929.

More than 2,000,000 persons went back to work last year and the gamble (on which Harry Hopkins proposes to cut 600,000 from WPA rolls in the next few months) is that 1937 will see an equal increase in employment.

How It Adds Up
Big profits are necessary to carry the budget, the fiscal group figures. It also believes that with expansion of the capital goods industry, a forecast of 60 per cent more building this year and other favorable factors, federal expenditures for stimulation of industry may now practically stop.

Various government policies are conditioned by the fiscal group's theories. One postulate is that government should be careful to do nothing to interfere with the continuing upturn—"Don't rock the boat!"

Strikes are considered bad medicine. Senate investigations which reveal labor espionage by big corporations and financial racketeering among the railroads are to be de-

Our favorite hunting guide has trouble with his reading, but he seems to be able to dope out figures—of course, he freely admits he never had time to go to school. Last week we were driving in his flivver and came to a road sign. "Gol ding it!" he said, puzzling over the sign. "I kin always tell how fer it says, but darned if I kin tell where to."

A man crossed a car filled street while looking up at an airplane overhead. Three buses shaved him so closely that his beard didn't appear again for a week, the wind from six passing cars raised the nap on his last year's suit, one five-passenger car removed the shine from the back of his left shoe, and the drivers of seven others of assorted makes stripped their gears in an effort to avoid him.

After stumbling over a curbstone on the other side of the street, the pedestrian was heard to murmur: "My gracious, those chaps do take risks!"

One man lost his car license and a $50 fine for running over a dog. We should be careful to confine such activities to pedestrians.

The longer and louder we blow our individual horns, the fainter and feebler will grow the encores.

plored. Tax law revisions to relieve certain alleged burdens on business are being urged. Federal action against investment trusts and sweatshops wouldn't be wise just now.

Wage and hour legislation also would be ill-advised, according to this view, and the fiscal group, insisting on more and more production, fears "labor monopoly" and higher wage scales as possible recovery deterrents.

All of which adds up to more or less of an antithesis to the president's promises in his Madison Square Garden and inaugural addresses concerning legislation to curb monopoly, to raise wages and reduce hours, to protect consumers against unfair prices and so on.

Seeking the Balance
The other group is primarily anxious for action which will keep the cost of living curve on the economists' charts below the curve denoting average earnings of workers.

There has been a big price advance since last October; since election the former curve has come right up alongside the latter. When plans get to operating near capacity the usual tendency is to give prices the gun for biggest profits.

The fiscal group doesn't seem to mind holding the profits will be well skimmed for taxes. But the other group says that if prices get ahead of purchasing power the goose which has been laying the golden egg will be killed.

Consequently, it urges brakes on prices and a curb on monopolies which control prices, while favoring any measures which will tend to increase wages and purchasing power, to the end that all factors making for recovery may be kept in even balance.

Vaccination Has Robbed Smallpox, Once Dread Disease, of Its Terrors

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Of all the infectious diseases which attack man, those spread through distry from the mouth and nose are most prevalent. The list includes not only such widespread diseases as tuberculosis and smallpox, but also the common cold, pneumonia, influenza, and many of the contagious diseases of childhood.

There was a time when the unusual person in any community was the one without smallpox scars on his face. Today it is rare indeed to see in any civilized region a person with these scars. He that is so disfigured is a living monument to his own ignorance or his parents' stupidity.

Smallpox is preventable. In fact, vaccination against smallpox was the first specific method of prevention discovered.

When Edward Jenner established its usefulness by his experiments in England in 1796, he took the first step towards specific inoculation against disease, a step that has led to all the specific methods of prevention already mentioned in this series.

Before use of vaccination, about five people of every 100 escaped smallpox, and about 25 per cent of these victims died. During the last ten years less than 600,000 cases have been reported in the United States, which means that only one of every 200 persons had the disease during that time.

In the United States, however, there is more smallpox than in any other civilized country in the world, except in British India. Most other civilized countries have made vaccination so compulsory they have been able to prevent smallpox in a way not possible in America.

In vaccination against smallpox, a person receives an injection of vaccine virus which sets up in him a localized infection of a much less serious type that causes his body to develop resistance against smallpox.

The resistance may wear off after a number of years so that it is wise for him to be vaccinated again after a reasonable interval of time. Vaccinations may protect for as long as twenty years.

It is customary nowadays to vaccinate a child when he is about six months old, then to vaccinate him again just before he enters school. After that, vaccination is necessary only when there is danger of an epidemic or of exposure to smallpox, or whenever a person plans to travel in the tropics or in China, where the danger of smallpox is greater than in America.

Every person exposed directly or indirectly to smallpox should be immediately vaccinated, and then vaccinated again if it fails to "take."

In the old days, vaccination was a serious matter. Improvement in method and the materials used, however, has made it possible to vaccinate with a small blister that heals rapidly and is not likely to cause any symptom worse than a slight itching.

It is important to keep the spot that has been vaccinated dry, cool, and clean. Unnecessary use of the arm should be avoided. The crust which forms on the vaccination should not be scraped off or rubbed with ointments. It is not well to cover the vaccination with a shield or pad of any sort, since this would cause perspiration and macerate the skin under the crust. Most doctors merely see that the crust covering the vaccination is protected with a little gauze.

During the World War, millions of soldiers were vaccinated and there are no records of any serious results. The slight possibility of any harm from vaccination compared with the serious danger of smallpox is so infinitesimal it needs hardly to be mentioned.

Because of the minute size of the punkie fly, screens and mosquito netting are useless for keeping them out.

However the city is much higher than the railroad and no danger is anticipated. Sixty-five refugees are being cared for by the Red Cross in that city and the churches are taking turns feeding them.

Grace Church Doings

A very carefully worked out program is being launched leading up to the time of Easter under the leadership of the pastor assisted by cooperating committees.

At the morning services Rev. Williams presented a message upon the theme "A Call to a Living Faith" that challenged the thought of the worshippers in a very positive manner.

The first of the preaching mission services was held at the vesper hour, 4:30, with an inspiring message delivered by the Rev. T. J. M. Crapp of Beardstown.

The music at both services was devotionals and in sympathy with the theme of the service. Miss Rhoda Olds assisted the Men's chorus in the vesper hour.

It was Missionary day in the Sunday school and the offering was $13.65 while the attendance was only 267. Plans are being developed to stimulate attendance in all departments during the next few weeks.

Epworth Leagues met at the usual hours with very helpful services.

The chairman also requests that units send any poem, song, one act play, skits or games that have been used. It is planned to file this material with the name of the association, as part of the lending bureau.

The twenty-fifth annual Firemen's

Ball was held Thursday evening in the Elks' hall on West Pearl street and was one of the outstanding community social affairs of the year.

In keeping with the anniversary of the organization, silver was the predominating color in the decorations of the ball room. Baskets of silver flowers adorned each end of the platform on which the orchestra sat and a lattice of silver ran the length of the stage in front.

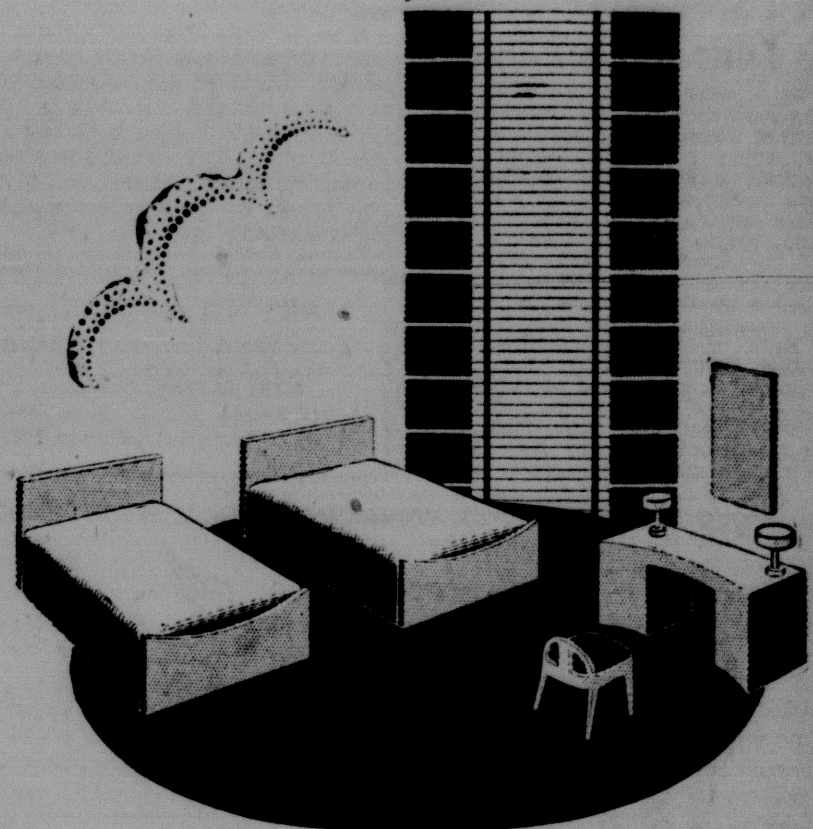

Bieber's Swing Band of Jacksonville furnished the music for the occasion. Although a final check-up has not yet been made to ascertain the amount realized from the ball, the committee in charge indicates that the affair was also a financial success.

Alice Roosevelt Longworth tells how Senators choose a light smoke... considerate of their throats

"I often lunch in the Senate restaurant at the Capitol. Nearly every Senator and Representative there smokes, and the number I see take out a package of Luckies is quite surprising. Perhaps surprising is not the word. Because off and on, ever since 1917, I myself have used Luckies for this sound reason: They really are a light smoke—kind to the throat. It's simply common sense that these Senators and Representatives, whose voices must meet the continuous strain of public speaking, should also need a cigarette that is considerate of their throats... a light smoke."

Alice Roosevelt Longworth

THE FINEST TOBACCO—

In a recent independent survey, an overwhelming majority of lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc., who said they smoked cigarettes, expressed their personal preference for a light smoke.

Mrs. Longworth's statement verifies the wisdom of this preference and so do leading artists of radio, stage, screen and opera, whose voices are their fortunes, and who choose Luckies, a light smoke. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on your throat.

To Demonstrate the PARADOX RUPTURE SHIELD

Mr. Bussler has fitted over 50,000 ordinary trusses and says the Paradox Shield is a tremendous improvement over all former methods, effecting immediate results. It will not only control the rupture perfectly but increase the circulation, strengthen the weakened parts, thereby closing the opening in ten days, regardless of heavy lifting, straining or any position the body may assume, no matter the size or location. A nationally-known scientific method. No understraps or cumbersome arrangements and absolutely no medicines or medical treatments.

Mr. Bussler will be glad to demonstrate without charge.

Fendrick Building, Evansville, Ind.

The society, Rev. Mr. Kunz says, has cared for 159 children from Morgan county, and now has supervision of 18 children from the county. It is the work of the society to take children who are orphaned or who are in broken and unsafe homes, and provide good homes for them. These children are placed in private homes and are cared for by respected citizens with funds by the society.

The society family now numbers 1,954 children. During the past year aid has been brought to 2,000 other children by assisting the parents to provide better conditions in the homes. Another 2,000 children have been assisted in various ways. The speaker explained that it costs about $500 a year to keep a child in a regular orphan's home, while the cost under the plan of boarding children in private homes is about $180 a year.

The society is expecting to care for hundreds of children orphaned in the flood disaster or made homeless. Many parents will be forced to find foster homes for their children until they can be rehabilitated.

Miss Doris Dean, who resides at the Colonial Inn here, is the society staff worker in this area. She looks after the children boarded in homes in this and surrounding communities and assists those who must come under the care of the society. It is estimated that at least 30,000 children in the state need such care, but only a small percentage can be helped, because of lack of funds.

Hunters Kill Banded Bird Near Spot of Release

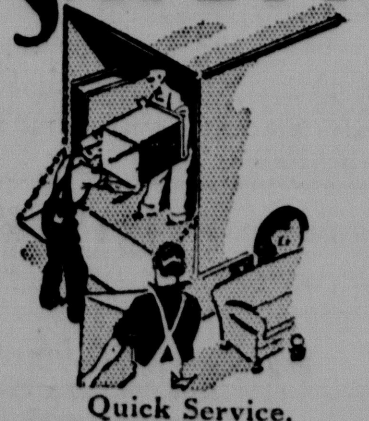

Jerseyville—The band taken from a quail killed during the recent hunting season was turned in to County Game Warden Thomas Cummings this week by Joseph Gibbons of the Delhi vicinity.

Gibbons reported to Cummings that the hunting party stopped when they killed the banded bird. A group of fifty banded birds were released last year by the warden in a drive to improve the present stock of quail in the county. The birds released with bands were from a high egg laying strain.

The bird killed by Gibbons was slain within one hundred and fifty yards of the spot where it was released by Department of Conservation officials.

Check Up on Kidnap Story Perpetrator's Past; Held in Jail

Speis Changes Name to James Shehan; Fingerprints are Sent to Capital

James Shehan, who told police Saturday morning his name was James Speis, is being held in the county jail here while officers check up on his past activities, as the result of a story he told to city police and Sheriff Kenneth Woods last Saturday morning when he declared that his wife had been kidnaped by three men near here.

Shehan, who maintained that his name was Speis all day Saturday while police officers were searching for the three men who were alleged to have abducted a girl he said was his wife, changed his story Sunday when he admitted his correct name. In order to be certain that they were not turning loose a man who is sought in some other part of the country, the sheriff's office is holding Shehan until it can get a report from the Federal Bureau of Investigation regarding his past as recorded through finger-prints.

Shehan told Deputy Sheriff Clint Strowmatt Sunday that he has been finger-printed once before. He said he was arrested in New Jersey on a charge of "riding the rods" but that he has never been arrested on a major criminal charge.

Deputy Strowmatt said that Shehan told him Sunday that he was working in St. Louis when he became acquainted with Catherine Aichs, whom he declared was his wife shortly after the girl was taken by three men near here early Saturday morning. He said he had been helping to pack up some equipment in a St. Louis restaurant which had gone into bankruptcy when Miss Aichs, who is said to be a divorcee, came into the place looking for something to eat.

Shehan told the deputy that he prepared her some coffee and sandwiches, and then in a conversation with her, learned that she planned to leave St. Louis either for Chicago or Cairo. They decided to make the trip to Chicago together, and set off on foot. Near Alton they were picked up by three men in an automobile, and when they reached the bridge over Maudslayi creek, a fight began and Shehan was ejected from the automobile.

Miss Aichs returned to Alton where she stayed in a hotel the remainder of the night.

Alton police picked up Grady Rice, Allan King, and Floyd Laird, and the men admitted that they had brought the girl back to Alton. Sheriff Kenneth Woods and State's Attorney Oscar Zachary were present in Alton when the three men were questioned, and were convinced that they had not forcibly taken the girl from Shehan. No charges were filed against them.

Shehan submitted to finger-printing Sunday afternoon and the prints were sent by airmail to Washington, D. C.

Racers Battle for Two-Mile Records

Don Lash Mark Beaten New by Texas Teacher's Lad

New York.—(P)—While the mile still is the "classic" distance in American foot-racing, each major meet brings further indications that Indiana Don Lash started something when he raced to a two-mile record of 8:58.4 at Princeton last spring.

Up to that time, Paavo Nurmi's indoor standard of 8:58.2 was considered almost unapproachable, and 9:15 or thereabouts was fast running for an American. Ray Sears held the native American record of 9:07.4.

Now, since Lash has demonstrated a home-bred runner can travel eight furlongs in less than nine minutes, a new crop of athletes steadily is approaching that mark and taking some of the edge off the mile, despite the feats of durable Glenn Cunningham.
In the Sugar bowl meet at New Orleans Wayne Rideout of North Texas Teachers College, virtually an "unknown" then, turned in the second-fastest two miles ever run by an American, 9:03.5, to defeat Lash.

At the Prout Memorial games in Boston a week ago Sears clicked off 9:16.4 over a slow board track, and Saturday night in the Millrose meet another Hoosier, Tommy Deckard, won in 9:07.6 while Lash jockeyed with the Rideout twins.

This not only was the second-best two mile race ever run by an American indoors but Deckard never had approached that speed and had no pace-making assistance. Lash was second.

Glenn Cunningham's decisive victory, his third in four years in the Wenamaker mile, left no doubt of his supremacy despite the comparatively slow time of 4:14.4. The famous ex-Kansas followed the slow pace cut out by Lash, who tackled the "iron man" stunt of running in both big races, until the bell lap. Then he turned on his characteristic finishing "kick" to win by six yards from his old rival, Gene Venzke. Meanwhile, Archie San Ramon of Emporia, Kas., Teachers beat out Lash for third place.

Hard Fought Contests in YMCA Loop Last Night; Smith High Gunner

In the curtain-raiser of the Y. M. C. A. basketball tournament last night, the Illinois College Freshmen took a 21-16 drubbing at the hands of Mac's Clothiers. Adolphson's consistent hitting threatened the Clothiers lead, but balanced shooting by all members of Mac's boys was enough to keep them out in front.

In the second game of the evening the Brown's Business College outfit bested the Liberty Boys, taking a 27-23 victory in the last few minutes of play. Clark of the losers and A. Lovekamp and Hidden of the victors were the high scorers, each accounting for ten points.

The night-cap was marked by fast rugged basketball. The Smith Indians finally won out in the tussle over the Lukeman Clothiers by a 39-30. Smith, who came through in the pinches, did most of the scoring for the Indians, gathering together 16 points for his contribution.

The Crimson will play here next Saturday night, and Routt is scheduled to meet Illinois School for the Deaf if the ban which has been on the Tigers since the beginning of 1937 is removed by that time. Routt also a game with Chandlerville Comets here this Saturday night.

Illinois College will top the heavy Saturday night schedule by meeting James Millikin on the I. S. D. court. The Blueboys, after taking both Illinois Wesleyan and Southern Teachers, two tough conference teams, into camp last week, will be faced with another one when Millikin comes here.

Grade Teams to Clash. Grade school basketball teams will clash in the curtain raiser to the Routt-McCooley game, with St. Patrick's meeting either the South Jacksonville or David Prince teams. They will meet at 7 o'clock, with the feature game slated for 8:15 p. m.

McCooley's only loss thus far this year has been to Quincy Academy, a team which has gone undefeated.

thus far. The Hannibal club handed Routt a set-back on the Hannibal floor a few weeks ago, but Routt is beginning to show signs of coming out of the slump.

Coach Wallace Baptist expects to use Shanahan and Greg Galtens at forwards, Ferry at center, Hanley and Harmon at guards against the Hannibal team.

Walker to Take Two Teams.

Coach Frank Walker will take two teams to Ashland. His freshman-sophomore combination will meet the Panther reserves in a curtain raiser, and his varsity squad will take on the Panthers in the night-cap. The games are scheduled for 7 and 8 p. m. Walker will use the same line-up which has been performing in most of the games recently. Henry and Leeper, forwards, Baptist, center, Abell and Johnston, guards, probably will be the starters.

The freshman-sophomore squad will consist of Massey and Fennell forwards, Spink, center, Vasconcellos and Chumley, guards, for starters, and Little, Ferguson, Moxon, Coulter and Finley, reserves.

Work Progresses at Routt.

Work on the new Routt parochial school building has been progressing rapidly of late and prospects are now that the Rockets will be able to use their new playing court by the time White Hall comes here the latter part of next week.

Workmen are expected here this week to lay the floor, and the new gymnasium probably will be completed by the early part of next week. Coach Wallace Baptist has made no plans for opening the gymnasium as yet, however.

Pittsfield jumped into the lead in the Northern division of the Illinois Valley conference and continued to dominate the Pike county conference race during the past week, while White Hall continued to reign over the southern division teams by taking the Greene county championship in a tournament which involved three other members of the loop.

With all of the tournaments out of the way from now until the district tournaments begin the last week in February, the teams in both leagues will settle down to trying to rescue something out of their season, and to inject as many surprises as possible before the curtain is drawn.

Pittsfield, after humbling Pleasant Hill, with one of its best teams, will stay out of conference competition this week. White Hall will go to Edwardsville tonight, and Friday night will lay its third game against the Roodhouse Railroaders on the Roodhouse court.

FAN BREEZES

By Ernest Savage

GOATS don't crop up very often in the basketball world, but if the rumor we hear is true, there is at least one in this part of the state this year to rank along with Roy Reigels, who ran the wrong way in that Rose Bowl game not so long ago.... We don't know his name, but a Griggsville player is supposed to have thrown the ball thru the wrong basket in the last minute of play to give Pleasant Hill a one point victory over Griggsville.... We'd just as soon not know his name....

SEVEN LEFT HANDED shots sailed through the net Saturday night propelled by Herb Scheffler.... Herb scored just seven field goals, and all of them were made from the port side after Herb had faked his opponent out of position.... The Blueboys now await the coming of the Millikin Big Blues this Saturday night.... Wesleyan plays at Bradley Tech in Peoria Tuesday night and the Blueboys are backing the Titans to hand the Indians their first defeat in the conference.... Wesleyan also plays at Millikin Thursday night.... Press reports state that 4,500 fans may witness the Bradley-Wesleyan battle....

WHISTLING brakemen for the Jacksonville regional tournament will be Lee Korty of Bluffs and Art Cox of Quincy.... White Hall has drawn Pres Wilson and Harve Turner.... Greenfield will have a home town boy, Knisley, whistling along with Macy, Litchfield coach at its district tournament....

SWIMMING cream puffs was the way Ray Nusspickel described the Illinois college tanksters after their meet with the University of Indiana.... The boys didn't do so well, only Corrigan turning in a first place against the Big Ten foe....

GREENE county's tournament made money, but not in as large an amount as last year.... There weren't enough upsets to bring out a crowd which would require stacking the fans around the court two or three deep.... Archie Collins surprised the tournament fans by bringing his Hillview club up to third place.... White Hall's victory was very much anticipated....

Believed Target of F. D. R. Edict

Amounted to Over Million; Show How It Was Met

Springfield, Ill.—(P)—A total of $1,067,425 was expended in Illinois for salaries of teachers of vocational education during the year ending June 30, 1936, State Superintendent of Public Instruction John A. Wieland said today.

One-half of this sum was supplied by state and federal funds while the remainder was furnished by local school authorities. Wieland said in the annual report of the vocational education board.

Of the total state and federal funds allotted at the end of the school year as salary reimbursements, $213,890 was expended for agricultural courses, $202,783 for industrial courses and $117,039 for home economics courses. The report said 327 centers conducted vocational courses in one or more of the three departments of vocational education.

Agricultural departments were maintained in 267 all-day schools, 60 evening schools for adults and 19 part time schools, with a total of 10,403 pupils enrolled in the courses taught by approximately 300 teachers. Forty-eight schools in 39 cities were reported to have maintained some type of trade and industrial education for 13,579 pupils, taught by 366 teachers. Home economics training was offered in 191 high schools and 11 evening centers, with a total of 16,532 pupils and 305 teachers participating in the courses, the report said.

FOOTBALL COACHES FAVOR OFFENSIVE

Detroit.—(P)—Sympathies of football coaches, as reckoned today from their annual post-mortem of the late season, favor the offensive.

The coaches' week-end huddle over grid rules left the impression that the offensive got the large share of any "breaks" in the "tutors" attitude toward reamping the rules.

Three of their four major proposals for rules changes—involving lesser penalty for the illegal shift, the forward pass, and the grounded punt—were definitely pro-offensive.

The fourth, concerning forward pass interference, while favoring the defense, was only to be expected in view of the demand for clarification of the defensive team's rights.

Convening as the rules committee of the American Football Coaches' association, the mentors recommended a new wording of the interference rule to the National Collegiate Athletic association which implies greater leeway for the defense.

Nothing in Keeping Feet on Deck

There is no percentage in a basketball player keeping his feet on the ground. This splendid action shot would indicate as much, at least, with six hoopers off their pins at the same time. It was snapped at Madison Square Garden while Springfield was defeating St. Francis, 35-18. Flannery of St. Francis, No. 9, fails to knock down a pass from Nuttall of Springfield, No. 25, to Lawler, No. 27. Gallagher of St. Francis is the player on the left. No. 3 is Gleason of St. Francis. No. 30 is Hebard of Springfield.

Recover Coat and Vest
The coat and vest of a letter carrier's uniform, stolen from the home of Henry Pruitt in White Hall a week ago Saturday night, was picked up in Murrayville by a Springfield truck driver and taken to his home in Springfield, who reported his find to the White Hall post office a week later. He said the garments were covered with ice and snow and it was not until several days later when he had time to examine them that he found their value and a bank deposit slip in a pocket that identified them.

Mrs. Florence Dunphy, Miss Lucille Nash, and Miss Hattie Walton drove to Monmouth Sunday to take Miss Louise Dunphy there to take a position with the Illinois Bankers Life Insurance Company. Louise Dunphy has been in St. Louis the last several months taking a business course in the St. Louis Business College and took a position with the Purina Mills in St. Louis in December, and the new position is quite a promotion in salary and opportunity. Miss Dunphy led her class all the way through her business course and received special honors several times.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Culbertson, Mrs. Eva Culbertson, Miss Ethel Culbertson, and Miss Dorothy Bishop drove to Millstadt Sunday to visit with Mrs. Elmer Bishop and family. Mr. Bishop has been in poor health for the past two or three years and last Thursday returned to Hines hospital in Chicago for further treatment. He is a World War veteran.

Dr. Charles Sherwin of St. Louis was here Friday night in consultation with Dr. W. H. Garrison regarding Mrs. Joseph Gibley, who underwent a major operation some time ago and who suffered a relapse the past week. She is better, however, at present, and it is hoped she will continue to improve. Dr. Sherwin was the guest of Mrs. Rose Pritchett and son Edmund over night and returned to the city Saturday morning.

Mrs. William Bishop has been suffering with shingles at her home on Tunison avenue. Her sister, Mrs. Frank Bishop of Carrollton, who has been here assisting in her care, returned home Saturday.

TO CHECK STORY OF "FORCED" MARRIAGE

Chicago.—(P)—Capt. Daniel Gilbert of the state's attorney's police prepared to send investigators to Morrison, Ill., today to ask a justice of the peace and other witnesses whether assistant corporation counsel Quin O'Brien was "forced" into marriage.

Mrs. O'Brien, 29, the former Marguerite Eustice, announced through her attorney she would file suit for separate maintenance against her husband unless he recognizes legality of the marriage performed Wednesday. O'Brien is 66.

O'Brien, who disappeared last Tuesday night, returned two days later and said he had been "kidnaped and forced to marry" Miss Eustice, Capt. Gilbert said. Her father and an uncle of the bride, O'Brien told Gilbert were witnesses to the ceremony.

Jail Five; Killing Of Girl Is Charged

Reported First as Highway Accident, After Party

Donaldsonville, La.—(P)—Three young men and two girls were in jail today charged with murdering 16-year-old Genevieve Legnon after a night club party two weeks ago.

The five, all from Donaldsonville, were held incommunicado and beyond confirming reports that the girl died of a fractured skull, investigating officers kept strict silence on the case.

The dead girl's father, Etienne Legnon, a New Iberia, La., carpenter, filed the complaint that led to the Investigation and arrest of Cleo Miller, Simon Melancon, Lorenzo Milano, Ralph Falsetto and Louise Wilson. Genevieve's death originally was reported as a highway accident. That it was being investigated was not disclosed until Sheriff Lester Gonzales of Ascension parish announced he had arrested the quartet.

They tried to get some of them off, but they crowded on." Vernon Hudelson of New Madrid, who was employed in the engine room of the towboat, said, however, he believed the barge, 100 feet long and 50 feet wide, was capable of carrying 130 men, the number he estimated was aboard when it sank.

Boyer and several other witnesses said the wooden barge struck a snag as it was being towed from New Madrid to the levee, but there was disputing testimony as to any damage. Biff Thurston, a levee worker, said a plank was torn out near the waterline, while Boyer said an inspection showed no damage.

Varble Funeral Held in Greene

Services Are Conducted at First Baptist Church; News Notes

Carrollton, Feb. 8.—Funeral services for Mrs. Lucy Varble were held Friday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock in the Carrollton First Baptist church. Rev. M. L. FISHER MANAGER IS WITNESS AT HEARING

Cleveland, Feb. 8.—(P)—Lincoln R. Seafe, manager of the General Motors corporation's strike-closed Fisher body plant here, testified today he had "standing instructions to open the plant whenever I can."

The plant, employing 7,000 men, has been closed since a sit-down strike started there Dec. 28.

Seafe testified in common pleas court in connection with the Fisher body Co's petition for an injunction to limit picketing by union workers at the plant.

Seafe said he received his instructions verbally from Edward P. Fisher, head of the Fisher body division of General Motors.

He said he called Fisher by telephone after William J. Corrigan, counsel for the United Automobile Workers' Fisher local here, had said Seafe could not open the plant. Asked by Corrigan why he called Fisher, Seafe said he wanted to "give him a laugh."

"Did he have another laugh that your production was cut from 65,000 to 1,500 units last week?" Corrigan asked.

"Nobody laughed very much about that," Seafe replied.

Jacksonville Scout Troops Gather For Program Last Night

Boys and Adults Meet at Court House, Observe Scout Anniversary

A fine audience composed largely of Scouts and future Scouts enjoyed the program prepared for the twenty-seventh anniversary of Boy Scouts of America, held last night in the circuit court room at the court house. L. K. Gilchrist, district commissioner, served as chairman of the evening.

The following program was given: Assembly—Ralph Thomson, bugler, Troop 107.

Scout Oath—Earl Floeth, Troop 107. Musical selections—Playboys, composed of George Cutshall, Clarence Smith and Richard Bogardt.

President Roosevelt's address to Boy Scouts—Read by Ned Donahoe, former member of Troop 9.

Musical trio—Donald, Mildred and Henry Spradlin.

Talk, "Why We Need Scouting in Jacksonville"—Ray Steinheimer, chairman of Oeage district.

Musical—The Dixon Trio, Hanable, Harold and Alonzo Dixon.

Fancy stepping—Theodore Winston. Talk, "The Responsibility of Being a Scout"—Paul Hesser, Scout executive of Abraham Lincoln council.

Musical—Dixon Trio. Moving pictures, "Diary of a Boy Scout," courtesy of the Y.M.C.A., and "Main Street," courtesy of Thomas N. Coyle.

Mr. Hesser in his address discussed to the large group of boys the responsibility of being a Scout, beginning with a descriptive picture of a camp fire group and then carrying through with constructive thinking and character building featured in the Scout laws and oath.

The Scout movement binds together boys of all countries in an organization to make better men and better citizens, he said. Mr. Hesser illustrated his talk with many interesting stories.

Mr. Coyle responded for the men honored by the Silver Beaver awards and in a short talk urged those present to join in the movement of Scouting. He urged adults to become interested in the program, and boys to join the various troops.

Socialists Hold Road to Valencia

Madrid, Feb. 8.—(P)—Her socialist defenders still held intact tonight Madrid's most vital link with the outside, the road to Valencia, at the end of the third day of a major insurgent offensive southeast of the capital.

Desperate insurgent attacks, evidently designed to reach the all-important highway by crossing the Jarama and Manzanares rivers, were thrown back, the defense junta said.

Center of the stubborn defense was Vaciadad, near the confluence of the two rivers and almost within sight of the Valencia road. There about 10 miles southeast of the capital, the government forces concentrated their manpower and artillery. As the Fascist attacks paused, the defenders worked feverishly to strengthen their fortifications along the Jarama river.

With the Valencia highway in danger, defense leaders said cutting it in parts that would not starve out Madrid's defenders, because Valencia still could be reached by other routes.

Husband, Parents Of Girl Arrested For Age Falsehood

State Trying to Prove Bride Is Twelve Years of Age

Watertown, N. Y., Feb. 8.—(P)—Watertown's child bride case developed new complications today when the parents of the bride and her husband were arrested and charged with obstructing justice.

The husband already faces a charge of rape, second degree, which the state claims was a consequence of the parents of the bride and her husband were arrested and charged with obstructing justice.

The cast and plot of the queer drama stood like this tonight: Joseph Roshia, father of Leona Elizabeth Backus, in jail for questioning on other angles of the case and charged with obstructing justice.

Mrs. Joseph Roshia, in jail and also charged with obstructing justice. Stanley Backus, 19-year-old husband, on bail on a charge of rape, second degree, also facing a charge of obstructing justice.

Leona Elizabeth (Roshia) Backus, child bride of disputed age, who remained in Mercy hospital, sent there when she told authorities she expected to become a mother.

Leona was born at Depauville 12 years ago, the state asserts, making her marriage illegal and Backus liable to criminal charges.

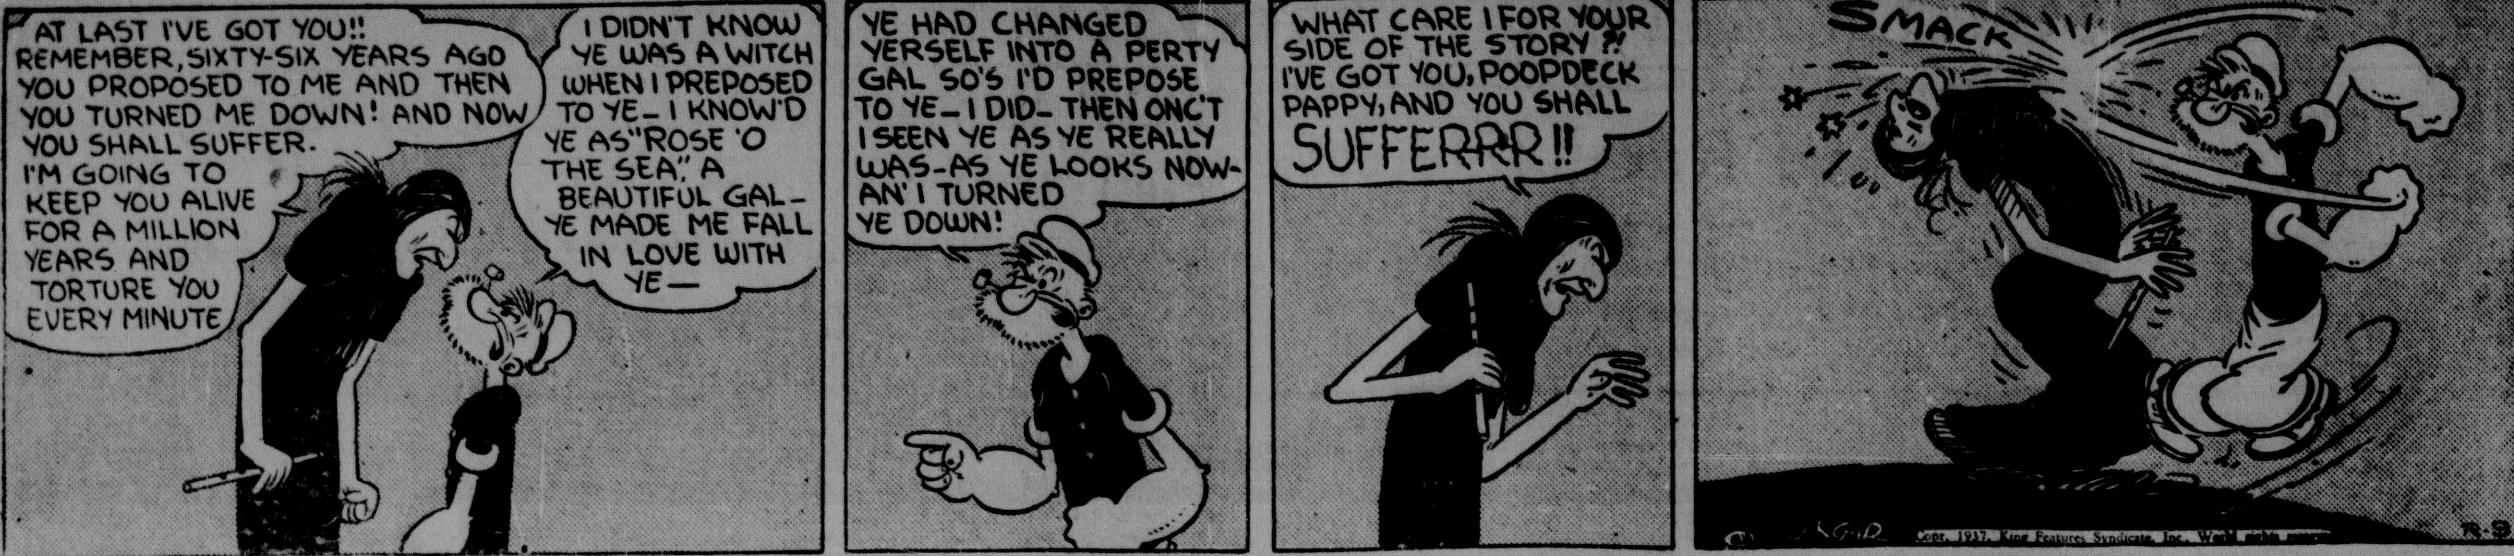

Members of the family assert she is 18.

Today's hearing was adjourned while authorities awaited arrival of more information from the state health department concerning Leona's birth record.</

Chandlerville WPA Man Fatally Hurt; Funeral Yesterday

Fall From Top of Ten Foot Bank Fatal; Suffers Skull Injuries

Chandlerville—Funeral services for William Everhard, age 51 years, were held Monday morning at 9:30 at the Lintner Funeral Rooms, with the Rev. Father Goyke, of Virginia officiating. Burial was in the Chandlerville cemetery.

Mr. Everhard died on Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at Schmitt Memorial hospital of Beardstown, from injuries received at 8:30 Friday morning when he fell from the top of a ten-foot bank to the frozen earth at the road level, suffering fatal head fracture and injuries. Emergency treatment was given by Dr. H. B. Boone of Chandlerville and the patient taken immediately to Schmitt hospital in Beardstown where he sank rapidly.

The body was returned to the Lintner Funeral Rooms here at four-thirty o'clock. A. L. Lintner, deputy coroner, made arrangements for a coroner's jury to meet on Saturday evening at 6 o'clock. Jurors impaneled were W. K. Armstrong, Linus Fielden, Lee Norton, Sam Mullin, Arthur Milstead and Milton Davis.

William Everhard is survived by his widow, Dolly Lane Everhard, one married daughter and Mrs. Esther Young of Churran and four children at home, Dorothy, Rosalind, Francis and William.

The family resides at the residence on the George Walker farm, south of Chandlerville.

Members of the Senior class of the Chandlerville Community high school held a phonograph dance on Friday evening in the assembly room, charging a ten cent admission fee to go into the student council fund for records to be used at school dances. A candy and pop stand purveyed refreshments. Arrangements for the evening were in charge of Margaret Clegg, Margarette Lynn, Mary Jeanette Vollmer, Gerald Craggs and DeWayne Thomas. Through the kindness of Mr. A. L. Lintner the phonograph was loaned to the school group for the gathering.

Navy Fliers Meet Death in Crackup

Were Making Flights to Obtain Weather Conditions

Pensacola, Fla.—(P)—Two United States navy fliers were killed today by the crash of a plane in which they were making flights to obtain flying condition information for the weather bureau.

The victims were Carl August Lind, 29, pilot and mechanic mate, first-class, at the naval station here, and William Adam Schnoberger, 39, of South Haven, Mich., chief aerographer, for the station's weather bureau. A navy board of inquiry was appointed to investigate.

Louisburg, N. C.—(P)—Authorities sought some explanation today of the crack-up of a plane which apparently went to pieces over a farm community near here yesterday, hurtling all four occupants to their deaths.

The plane, Coroner W. A. Bobbitt said, was scattered over ten to 15 acres, and "it just looked like the plane went all to pieces." One wing, he said, fell some 400 yards from where the motor hit the ground, and the gas tank was also separated from the rest of the ship. The plane did not catch fire.

The dead were identified as Arthur Conn, president of a motor sales and a taxicab company in Akron, O.; Daniel L. Breen, of Akron, vice president of the motor sales concern; Chet H. Betz, the pilot, also of Akron; and Miss Carolina Danley, of Miami, Fla.

My Dear Bishop:

Well Known Dance Band Leader Tells About Ohio Flood

Joe Sanders in City Sunday; Quits Cincinnati As Waters Crept Up

Joe Sanders, "The Old Left Hand," widely known orchestra leader, whose programs are heard almost nightly over the radio, stopped in the city Sunday afternoon, enroute to Quincy, where he gave a program of dance music Sunday night. Sanders and his orchestra rolled into the city Sunday afternoon in their own bus, and stopped for lunch before completing a trip to Quincy.

Sanders and members of his orchestra just escaped being classed as flood refugees. They had been engaged in a series of appearances at the Hotel Gibson in Cincinnati, Ohio, just prior to the flood and their contract was just completed when the water began invading the city. In fact, said Sanders, "we nearly lost our bus before we escaped from the city of water."

The orchestra leader said water nearly surrounded their bus before the band members could get together to leave the city and when it was parked in front of the hotel just prior to their intended departure from the city the Cincinnati fire department commandeered the vehicle to aid in fighting a fire which had broken out in the Croley radio plant. Later the bus was returned and the musicians left the city. The water rose rapidly, Sanders related, and he considered it fortunate that he and his band were not left stranded in the city for several days.

Sanders is well known to radio audiences, his first broadcasts occurring when loud speakers were a novelty. His initial radio appearances were made as a member of the Coon-Sanders orchestra out of Kansas City. His partner, W. S. Coon, passed away a number of years ago and subsequently Sanders organized an orchestra of his own.

Sanders arrived in the city Sunday minus his gray beard of radio fame, tired and hungry after a trip that took his band of musicians thru six states during the six days. His musicians are traveling in their own bus and dress for comfort while making their travels, their wearing apparel standing out in startling contrast to the clothing worn while playing in some of the well known pleasure spots in the country.

The orchestra has been playing in various states since leaving Cincinnati the states including Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois and Missouri. A number of engagements were cancelled because of the high water Sanders remarked.

Asked if he liked touring the country with his band, Sanders replied that he liked the money that the engagements brought in. His orchestra plays many cities much smaller than Jacksonville, said the orchestra leader and good crowds attend. "It is a hard life, but it pays well," he stated.

For many months Sanders' orchestra played at the Blackhawk Restaurant in Chicago, and nightly his music was broadcast from that place. He believes that the good orchestras that play in well known clubs and cafes place the money that the engagements brought in. His orchestra plays many cities much smaller than Jacksonville, said the orchestra leader and good crowds attend. "It is a hard life, but it pays well," he stated.

Sanders said he has been thru Jacksonville many times. Mrs. Sanders, his wife, is a niece of Judge Francis Baldwin, who formerly sat in Morgan county court.

Jacksonville Ready To Stage Dollar Day With Bargains For Everyone

Today is Dollar Day in Jacksonville, regardless of the weather.

It may be a pleasant day, or it may be blustery, but the state of the weather will have no bearing on the carnival of bargains that awaits the shoppers of Jacksonville and surrounding communities. A dull day will not dim the lustre of shining examples of thrift, for which large numbers of buyers are expected.

Jacksonville merchants stage Dollar Day only twice a year. They make these semi-annual sales worth while, something to be remembered.

The fame of Jacksonville's Dollar Day is by no means local in scope. From a wide territory in West Central Illinois the buyers come to take advantage of the special prices on merchandise. Of course, pleased with values on Dollar Day, they come back at other times of the year to do business here.

Dollar Day specials are not confined to any one line of merchandise. Practically all merchants in all lines of business have entered the special sales event by quoting low prices on merchandise the people need and want at this season of the year.

Extra Help, Large Stocks
The majority of the stores have put on extra help to accommodate the brisk business that is expected. Practically all merchants in all lines of business have entered the special sales event by quoting low prices on merchandise the people need and want at this season of the year.

Large stocks have been put into shape so that they may be attractively displayed to Dollar Day crowds.

Dollar Day is not an experiment in this city—it is a tried and proven plan of stimulating trade by offering first-class merchandise at rock-bottom prices. The public has patronized these special sales for so long that it is aware of the bargains to be found.

With price levels scheduled to mount in the next few months, many persons will find Dollar Day shopping an economical practical business on their part. Articles that may rise in cost will be in particular demand as shoppers visit the stores.

Regardless of weather conditions, indications point to a successful sale. Jacksonville's Dollar Day has grown to be so well known and healthy, that it can shake off a little snow or rain and still qualify among the largest events of the year.

Aged Greene County Woman Is Fatally Injured by Flames

Miss Sallie Brown Dies After Clothing Catches Fire; To Hold Inquest

Greenfield, Ill. Feb. 8.—Miss Sallie Brown, 82, was fatally burned here late tonight when her clothing caught fire while she was attempting to start a fire in a stove, in her one room house, one block from the public square. Miss Brown lived alone.

The tragedy was discovered by Night Marshall F. P. McQuerry. Mr. McQuerry smelled burning wood when he passed the Brown home on his way to the C. & Q. railroad station at 11:20 p. m. with the U. S. mail. After leaving the mail at the station Mr. McQuerry returned and started an investigation in an effort to locate the fire. When he neared the Brown home he saw smoke pouring out of the window. Mr. McQuerry broke in the door and found Miss Brown on the floor, her clothing in flames.

Mr. McQuerry ran to the Shields & Sons mortuary a short distance away and called Russell Shields, who in company with Elmer Kinsley, hurried to the Brown home with buckets and extinguished the flames, and removed the body.

Miss Brown's legs were badly charred and her face badly burned. The body was only slightly burned. It is believed that Miss Brown had attempted to light a fire in the stove with newspapers, the flames catching her clothing on fire. From all appearances the elderly woman attempted to reach the door of her small home but became overcome and fell near the door.

The body was removed to the Shields & Sons Mortuary, where an inquest will be held Tuesday morning.

Miss Brown was born in Carrollton, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Brown. She had lived in Greenfield the greater part of her life. For many years she operated a millinery store in this city.

She is survived by the following nieces and nephews: Jesse B. William Frank and J. M. Parks of Greenfield; Walter and Lee Brown, Carrollton; Mrs. Nellie Morgan and Miss Gertrude Brown of Alton.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Program by Wolff Delights Audience

German Musician Presents Group of Songs Here Monday Night

Possessed of a rich baritone voice of exquisite timbre, Ernst Wolff, presented by the MacMurray Community concert series in cooperation with the Association of American Colleges delighted a capacity audience, Monday evening at the high school auditorium.

This young German artist a "Lieder" singer, presented a program of folk songs, singing these lovely songs to his own perfect accompaniments.

One was immediately conscious of his natural singing ability, which brought his own thrill to the audience. He was called back again and again for encores to which he graciously responded.

Mr. Wolff sang with magnetic buoyancy making a deep impression upon his listeners, with the high degree of his artistry, which produced a distinct appeal.

In the program, which would tax the technical and interpretative powers of the greatest Herr Wolff demonstrated his sympathetic understanding as was shown particularly in the Handel and Schumann numbers. The prolonged passages noted in the Schubert group were performed with a marvel of tonal beauty, and a superior command and noteworthy enunciation.

The rhythmic verve and lilting melody in the last group especially captivated the audience and repeated recalls were demanded, which were responded to with several numbers, that were a fitting climax to a rare program.

Such a program is not often heard outside of the large musical centers. Mr. Wolff sang the songs of his own land with great artistry. His rich voice, vibrant and full of feeling responded to the soothing pianissimo or the passages of fiery radiance with unflinching readiness.

Although the program was sung in a foreign tongue the interpretations made the message clear to his many delighted auditors, who clamored for more. He graciously added the following to the formal program: Heidenroschen—Schubert.

After the recital President and Mrs. McClelland entertained the MacMurray faculty and a few friends in June Hall in honor of Mr. Wolff. The attractive table was presided over by Dr. Gamper of the German department and Mrs. Henry Ward Pearson.

Total Relief Fund Contributions Is Nearly $17,000,000

Midwestern Area Red Cross Chapters Give $5,127,000; Exceed Quotas

Contributions made to the flood relief fund to the American Red Cross at the close of last week had reached $16,755,000. Henry J. Rodgers, chairman of the local chapter, announced yesterday. A letter from Wm. M. Baxter, Jr., area manager, stated that contributions in the midwestern area at the same time had reached $5,127,000. Out of the total of 1562 chapters of the Midwestern Area, 1505 have reported to date and 1108 have reached or exceeded minimum quotas.

"This response to the Red Cross appeal," said the Baxter letter, "in behalf of flood sufferers in Ohio and Mississippi river valleys exceeds the generosity and spontaneity anything that has been experienced in recent years by the national organization."

"The latest reports from members of the national staff on duty throughout the flood area show that 987,000 persons have been affected to date by the flood. This is more than the number of persons careered for the Mississippi flood of 1927. The Red Cross effort which has been directed almost entirely to the emergency phase of the relief operations during the last two weeks will shortly be directed to the task of rehabilitation."

"All funds contributed will be needed to provide relief for which the Red Cross is responsible."

The total amount contributed to the Morgan county chapter of the Red Cross has reached $4,777.10. It was announced yesterday. The Ideal Baking Company offered the Red Cross 3,000 loaves of bread to be shipped to a concentration camp for flood sufferers last week, but due to the uncertainty of delivery this donation of bread could not be accepted at that time, and in the meantime awaiting orders from national headquarters the employees of the Ideal Baking Company contributed to the Red Cross fund $35.00.

One thousand loaves of bread are being shipped via express to the Red Cross Concentration camps in Anna, this morning, which is a donation from the Peerless Bread Company, and will be used by the 8,000 refugees tomorrow.

Yesterday's contributors are reported as follows:

Clifton Davis, $5.00; J. L. Henry, $5.00; Strawn's Crossing Women's Club, $5.00; Mrs. J. E. Rawlings, $5.00; Bethel A. M. E. Church, $10.35; Ideal Baking Co. employees, $35.00.
